

Why we are giving free support

	A Royal Commission finds out the truth about important things
	It can then tell the government what should change
	There is a Royal Commission finding out about the bad things that sometimes happen to people living with disability
	We call this the Disability Royal Commission or the DRC
	The DRC has listened to stories from people with disability
	It knows people with disability don't always get support when they have been abused or not looked after

	The DRC says this is not okay
	The DRC wants to find support for people who have had bad things happen
	It will make sure the same bad things don't happen to other people
	You can get counselling if bad things have happened to you
	Counselling is where you talk with a counsellor
	Counselling can make you feel better
	It is free

	You can get counselling face-to-face
	You can get counselling over the phone
	You can get counselling online
